

Attorney Andrew Cagen is a graduate of Suffolk University Law School in Boston.

Mr. Cagen practices law in Providence, Rhode Island and has a focus on consumer and small business matters. He has taken a strong interest in the needs of first-time homeowners and in 1989 was the private-partner recipient of the Partners in Housing Award given by the Rhode Island Housing & Mortgage Finance Corporation in recognition of his service to low-income homebuyers. He is currently a member of the Board of Directors of Urban Ventures, which encourages the development of small businesses in Rhode Island, and works closely with the Rhode Island Black Business Association.

Attorney Cagen is a proud father of three adult children